Teaching Methodology

I am a highly experienced maths teacher and have excellent subject knowledge at both GCSE and A level. I'm friendly, easy going and get excellent results through building good relationships with my students.

The sessions I run are specifically designed for each individual student. This considers the level they are currently working at, target grade, their areas for development and preferred learning style. I am passionate about Mathematics, and this comes across in my teaching.

At GCSE and A level I build into each session past exam questions, including problem solving questions using the techniques learnt in the lesson.

My daughter has been working with Sam on her A level maths for four sessions now. She finds each session helpful, Sam's explanations are clear, and she tests her understanding. As a result, she is now finding her maths lessons less challenging and finding that she can complete her home learning tasks from school more easily.

Sam has been tutoring my daughter for the past 2 months and we have seen a significant improvement and she has gained in confidence, highly recommend!

Samantha is very organised and plans her lessons very well. She gives homework and makes sure they are complete prior to the next lesson. I very strongly recommend her

Sam has provided great support for our daughter at both gcse & a level. Our daughter feels more confident & able to tackle both class work & exams. I would not hesitate to recommend Sam as a tutor

Sam made me enjoy and feel confident in maths again.

She is kind, clear, concise and to the point with her teaching. Sam taught me subjects I could never understand from school and gave me helpful tips to take into the test.

When I didn't understand something it was never a problem we just tried again until I understood it.

I passed my Maths test and I truly believe I couldn't have done that without Sam teaching me each week and I am so grateful. I can now go to university and practice my chosen career!
