I have taught History and Politics in both schools and sixth forms in the last 20 years. I am currently Head of Humanities at a large sixth form with responsibility for over 1000 students and their progress as well as developing a broad and engaging curriculum offer.

For the last 15 years, I have marked A Level History papers for Edexcel covering a broad range of topic areas. I have also marked GCSE History and A level Politics for the same board. In the last three years I also have marked A Level Politics for AQA.

In the last three years, I have tutored several students at both GCSE and A-level, both online and face-to-face, across several exam boards, including AQA and Edexcel.

Availability: Flexible weekdays and weekends during term time and holidays.

Testimonials:

“Nicola has tutored both of my daughters in the last three years. My husband and Richard are extremely grateful to you for the way she helped prepare both children to go into the exams with confidence. We really can’t thank her enough.”
