

Tutor: Ray

Bachelor of Arts – Staffordshire University:
Geography (1992-1995)

PGCE – Manchester Metropolitan University:
Geography (2001-2002)

Experience:

21 years of teaching including running a successful geography department and as a middle leader in a variety of roles from pastoral to teaching and learning.

I have produced a wide variety of resources and case studies that have been used to support students from the age of 11 to 18 of all abilities. This has led to success for pupils at GCES and A Level. Also I am a Team Leader for a large exam board giving me the experience of demonstrating to pupils how to access the whole range of marks at exam level.

My passion for teaching, and experience of working with pupils at all levels, has given me a large skill set that allows me to model exam responses at all levels. I am able to use remote learning platforms to deliver excellent resources and present online. Lessons can be delivered through Teams or Zoom and any resources can be accessed and used for future reference. I use these resources as an aid to deliver exam responses that meet the requirements of the differing questions posed. I will be able to assist in improving your subject knowledge, improving your geographical skills and provide useful exam techniques to help you deliver on the day.

Availability:

Flexible weekdays and weekends during term time and holidays. Available from 6pm during term time and all day during holidays.

Testimonials:

“My daughter has been taught by Ray throughout her time at school and sixth form. Ray’s ability to build a positive working relationship and to teach with personality has furthered my daughter’s love of Geography and she has carried this on at university. Ray is a very experienced and knowledgeable teacher who can relate to his pupils thus allowing them to learn and succeed.”

“I really enjoyed the geography lessons with Ray. He planned really good lessons. He would always make sure that I understood the content and would tailor the lessons to help with areas I was struggling with. The lessons would be varied and challenging, whilst giving me the confidence to apply the content to exam questions. I was targeted a B but achieved a Grade A. This allowed me to continue Geography at my first choice university. Ray is approachable and friendly making topics understandable.”
